

positions likely to be adopted by the enemy. These cannot be known until he is sighted.

“The fleet will be divided into seven divisions, as in the following table :—

ALLIED FLEET.
(Spanish ships are in italics.)
1st Division.	2nd Division.	3rd Division.
Santísima Trini- dad. Rayo. Argonauta. Indomptable. Scipion. Fougueux.	Bucentaure. Neptune. Formidable. Santa Ana. Duguay Trouin. Mont Blanc.	P. de Asturias. Neptuno. Intrepide. Achille. Berwick. Argonauta.
} 1st Sub- division.	} 3rd Sub- division.	} 5th Sub- division.
} 2nd Sub- division.	} 4th Sub- division.	} 6th Sub- division.
4th Division.	5th Division.
Monarca. Pluton. San Augustin. Héros. San Justo. Aigle.	Algésiras. Redoutable. S. Francisco de Asis. Montañez. San Juan Nepomuceno. Swiftsure.	} 9th Sub- division. } 10th Sub- division.
} 7th Sub- division.	} 10th Sub- division.
} 8th Sub- division.
Reserve Division.	Cruiser Division.
Bahama. San Ildefonso. San Leandro. Hortense.	Thémis. Rhin. Cornélie. Hermione. Furet. Argus.

“The first division, under Rear-Admiral Cisneros, and the second division, commanded by myself, will form the wedge wherewith it is proposed to pierce the enemy's line, if he be in line abreast, or which will take the first blows if he be in line ahead. At a distance of fifteen to twenty cables in the rear, and in such formation as circumstances shall dictate, will be the third division, under Admiral Gravina. The armoured cruisers shall likewise be guided by circumstances in their movements. Of the cruiser division, the Cornélie, Hermione,